Teacher

MURIEL JOHNSTONE

I grew up in a family of music lovers and dancers, so it was probably inevitable that my career would be influenced by these early experiences. I started Scottish country dancing at the age of seven in the North West Ayrshire Branch children's class where my mother was the pianist. By osmosis, I learned so much from her playing about what is needed to make a good dance musician. Despite her efforts to steer me firmly down a classical music road, the pull of Scottish music has always been strong, and I have danced and played for dancing for much of my life and have had countless hours of enjoyment, great adventures travelling the world and the huge satisfaction of passing on some of my knowledge and experiences to others.

Apart from playing and teaching, I love accompanying, composing and recording. My label "Scotscores" has astonishingly reached CD 34 since its small beginnings in 1983!

It is my pleasure to return to Borders Branch to lead the musicians at the Day School.
